The Lone Star Historical Miniatures (LSHM).

We promote miniatures wargaming in primarily historical periods but also fantasy/sci-fi. We are not dedicated to one rule set or scale. We promote miniatures wargaming by running events, helping local conventions, and assisting with tournaments, financial backing and run demo games. We will also run gaming classes at schools. We encourage all gamers to be a part of our group to help support our common hobby.

LSHM held its annual membership meeting on 14 January 2018.

The membership present elected the current Board of Directors to another year in office, additionally we filled an open seat by electing Mark Sanchez to his first year on the board. Thanks to all who attended and provided input.

Those serving on the 2018 LSHM Board of Directors are:

Charlie Torok - President
Joe Wicker - Vice President
Ian Straus - LSHM Treasurer/Secretary
Mike Gomez - MillenniumCon Treasurer
Mark Leroux - Director Social Media
Oscar Barela – Board Member
Mark Sanchez – Board Member

Look inside the Newsletter for details and upcoming events.

Welcome Mark Sanchez to the 2018 LSHM Board

During the January 2018 business meeting I was surprised to be endorsed and elected to the Lone Star Historical Miniatures leadership board. A miniatures club? Me? A chronic ‘paint fatigue’ sufferer? My PTSD-like nightmares over mountains of unpainted lead?

My miniature wargaming experience started several years ago with the Colorado Springs Gamers Association when I bought my first blister-pack of figures for the new Flames of War title. This led to a path of consumption, accumulation, hoarding, and spending my grandkids’ inheritance which, like Jacob Marley, bound me with chains of unpainted minis and a supply of lead soldiers which diffracted sunlight over our house.

Living in the basement (the Colorado climate causes a subterranean lifestyle) I became a hunchbacked hermit; crouched over paints, brushes, files, and exacto-knives, for weeks on end. Then came the revelation that I’d rather spend weekends with maps and dice, pushing cardboard panzers, regimental counters, and half-squads across conveniently pre-printed, geomorphic terrain under Plexiglas. I returned to the hex and counter wargames through which I joined the hobby decades ago. I also learned that today’s board wargames are significant improvements over the 1970s products. However, I also learned to manage the miniatures madness with moderation.

I still paint miniatures; but, in limited, select numbers. I have collected a number of wargames which combine tabletop maps with miniature figures. There are several historical, conflict simulations which support this hybrid idea. The pre-painted battlefield map market also manifests this approach. Some tabletop commanders have called these troops “3D Counters”. I also confess to an attraction to pre-painted miniatures and enjoy the Wings of War, and Star Wars products. But, back to the question: why the Lone Star Historical Miniatures wargamers club?

I have enjoyed my association with LSHM because of the camaraderie, fellowship, encouragement, and spirit which permeates each game night, muster, games day, demo, MILLENIUM, and pickup wargame at our FLGS. (Friendly Local Game Shops). LSHM is not dedicated to any specific wargame product, ruleset, genre, or historical period. Its members embrace the breadth and diversity of the historical wargaming hobby and the variety of ways to wage tabletop military campaigns. There's a strong interest in military history, strategy, tactics, military futures (as in science fiction) and, yes, even the paint color of Panzer Lehr collar tabs, if one is so inclined.

This includes the games where members allowed me to play with their toys. (I think it's wonderful when someone has three times the number of troops that Napoleon actually deployed) Or, to just turn out and watch a good 'firefight' or small unit engagement, while talking about wargames and military history with a 'BOGSAT' (Bunch Of Guys Sitting Around a Table).

I'm very appreciative to be part of LSHM and its mission to spark interest and encourage involvement in the diverse and fascinating hobby of tabletop wargaming.

Mark Sanchez

I am looking forward to this year's LSHM events, especially MILLENIUM, and I, as a hex and counter fan, will be going to CONSIMWORLD EXPO in Arizona.

Although I am a hex and counter (and occasionally blocks) wargamer, and a recovering paint fatigue patient, I always feel welcomed at LSHM events.

ARMY GROUP NORTH MINIATURES

<http://www.agnminiatures.com/>

Army Group North Miniatures carry a fine range of 1/56-scale models aimed at wargamers like you!

Specializing in the interesting vehicles of the Early War Period, AGNM provide solid models specially made to match 28mm figures, ready for tough play made from odorless, high-quality resin with white-metal attachments.

AGNM vehicles feature ease of assembly with the vehicles requiring a minimum of gluing, often just the white-metal gun barrels needing to be glued in place (along with free stowage!) to be all ready for priming and painting.

Also, AGNM vehicles being prebased means not having to fiddle around with gluing brittle or air-bubble damaged sidetracks to a central hull section; makes the models very solid; helps with storage, especially when combined with magnetic basing; and can be flocked to match your already-based soldier stands while matching your based soldier figures for height.

AGNM also carry a range of excellent 1/56-scale white-metal German guns with crews that are sold separately from vehicles or other goods; and cost much less than similar items from our major competitors.

And unlike our major competitors AGNM often include free product samples with larger orders including terrain pieces, and samples taken from our Objective Markers Range as several L.S.H.M. Club members can attest. Even small orders will often be gifted some of our exclusive hit, morale, immobilized, and pinned counters.

Vehicles only; figures are not included but are shown here for scale purposes 'live' during a game. (F.Y.I. the hexes are 3" ones.)

Although not yet featured at our webstore, feel free to inquire at our info@ e-address about our fine range of resin national and unit Objective Markers, many made from original national badges from as low as $2.50 each, postage included.

Wings of Glory: WWII Battle Report

*By David Morgenthaler
Lone Star Historical Miniatures (LSHM)*

Wings of Glory WW2 Battle of the Bismarck Sea, 2-4 March 1943

Historical Situation. During 2-4 March 1943, Australian and American air units attacked a 16-ship Japanese convoy headed for New Guinea to reinforce its forces fighting there. The convoy of eight destroyers and eight transports carried the Japanese 51st Division. The fight was on!!!

We used Ares Games Wings of Glory World War II system and aircraft for the scenario. We reduced the convoy to two destroyers and two transports. Each player flew two aircraft while the GMs operated the ships.

Destroyers Arashio and Asashio escort the Teiyo Maru (yellow dot) and the Oigawa Maru (red dot) while Kawasaki 61s provide air cover.

Forces Engaged:

Allied: 3 B17Fs, 4 B25s, 4 Beaufighters, and 2 P40s.

Japanese: Destroyers Asashio, Arashio; Transports Oigawa Maru, Teiyo Maru; 6 KI61 aircraft.

Allied aircraft attacked the convoy from three sides of the tables. Group 1, the B17Fs, attacked the convoy from the south. Groups 2 and 3 attacked from the east and west with 2 Beaufighters and 2 B25s each.

Beaufighters reached their targets first, strafing the ships from bow to stern, damaging bridges and open AA gun mounts. Beaufighter pilots used their speed and maneuverability to strafe several ships more than once. Japanese AA fire downed 1 Beaufighter and 1 B25 while seriously damaging 1 B17F. Japanese fighters were ineffective.

Australian Beaufighters and USAAF B25s on the way to attack the convoy.

B-17Fs escorted by P40s on the way to the convoy.

With their open AA mounts destroyed, the transports were sitting ducks for the wave of attacking B25s. Using masthead bombing and strafing, Group A's B25s hit the Teiyo Maru with 8-500 lb bombs sinking it. A lone B25 from Group B hit the Oigawa Maru with 4-500 lb bombs, enough to send it to the bottom.

Allied aircraft approaching the convoy from three directions.

The End. Hit by 4-1000 lb. bombs and 8 near misses, the Arashio rolls over and sinks. The two transports had already been sunk by masthead-bombing by B25s. The damaged Asashio sails away.

Meanwhile, the three B17Fs, deprived of their primary target, the transports maneuvered to attack the destroyer Arashio. The Arashio was hit by 4-1000 lb bombs and 8 near misses. With its superstructure destroyed and hull ruptured, the Arashio rolled over, headed for the bottom.

I will be taking sign ups and requests for unit boxes This Friday, and all the way up to Christmas.

Happy gaming! Thomas Morgan

MORTEM ET GLORIAM

Mortem et Gloriam Ancients Tournament in Austin!

We are planning a MeG Tournament for February or March in Austin at Nerdstock. This is specifically a BEGINNERS TOURNAMENT, so we will have fewer games with longer time allowance to reduce the pressure and let people concentrate on learning all the aspects of the game, rather than winning in a limited time frame. It will be OPEN format to allow more players who don't have armies from all periods.

In addition, Nerdstock does not open until noon on the weekend, so we plan on two games on Saturday and one on Sunday. Each will have a 3.5 hour time allowance.

LET US KNOW YOUR PREFERRED DATES! Contact Rob Smith on the LSHM facebook page if interested.

We need to nail this down soon, to please comment with your preferences.

Battle Report

By Rob Smith

Lone Star Historical Miniatures (LSHM)

Continuing our obsession with Mortem et Gloriam, we trotted out Beka's newly refurbished Gallic Army. This army has been around since the mid 80s when she painted it. It has been rebased now, I think, five times! Marty did a great job fixing and rebasing, while preserving the character of Beka's original work! Thanks Marty.

In this battle, we put our 11,000 points of Gauls versus W Gordon Derr's Late Republican Romans. Our Gallic force consisted of five warbands, maximum cavalry and chariots a few skirmishers, a Soldurii unit and a command of two small Gaestati units under an allied commander.

The Romans, commanded by Gaius Julius Caesar himself (Legendary CinC), with four legions, one of which was Superior, two excellent Roman cavalry units, three light horse a unit of Spanish Scutarii and a Velite unit.

Gordon and Dave Bennett out maneuvered the Gauls into dense terrain in an attempt to minimize our mounted superiority, but alas, the placement of the woods did not advantage the Romans and the Gauls were able to begin on the small hill in the center.

The Roman command and light cavalry superiority was evident as they had to deploy 80% of the army before the Romans even broke their morning fast! Thus, after the Gallic infantry and nearly half the mounted arm had arranged ourselves, then the Romans deployed. Finally, our last few cavalry and chariots reinforced both flanks. Then we were ready to begin the epic clash!

Test of Honour Battle Report

By Pete Atack
Lone Star Historical Miniatures (LSHM)

I met up with Albert DiMarco to get our samurai back on the table with Warlord's Test of Honour. We played an 18-point game and selected a scenario requiring both of us to search a battlefield for injured relatives (5 victory tokens on the table; first to 3 wins). Albert's force was composed of Ronin, Bandits and Thugs while mine was a standard force of Samurai and his retainers.

TEST OF HONOUR

THE SAMURAI MINIATURES GAME

Off to a quick start, Albert quickly found 2 relatives (or his Thugs picked their pockets?) and was within reach of a third. Moving slower, my men made no progress in searching or moving much for that matter. As Turn 2 started it looked like it was going to end as Albert tested to gain the 3d victory point – and failed. So as not to draw it out, Albert’s Samurai failed 7 straight tests to gain a VP that he was standing next to. Sorry, Albert!

As the above scene played out, Albert's other Samurai found himself cornered by my Samurai, some bowmen, and a wall. Killing a bowman, he turned to face the real threat but was cut down by a massive strike from a heavy sword. Some amazingly brave Bandits then held the center against my two Samurai as he continued to try and grab the 3d VP as my retainers found 2 relatives and moved on the 3d!

Tiring of dealing with Bandits, my heroic samurai jumped a short wall, charged Albert's last Samurai and cut him down with one mighty swing. Seven failed VP tests was the last of his issues at that point. Some minor skirmishing took place after that, but my Samurai Hero was able to locate and claim the third VP for the win.

Napoleon at War (NaW)

Battle Report

By Steve Miller

Lone Star Historical Miniatures (LSHM)

We had a great 4 person Napoleon at War game at the Rat Palace on 1/14. A two division French "kinda' a corps" faced off against the Austrians and British.

The Westfalian Division was supported by elements of Cuirassiers, Carabiniers, and Lancers. The French were supported by Lancers and Cuirassiers. The Austrians had a reserve element of the Grenadier brigade and two regiments of Dragoons. The British were pointed rather "plain Jane" with supporting elements of Horse Artillery, Light and Heavy Brigades.

The game was nip and tuck throughout the afternoon as the Westfalian general ignored casualties in his conscript forces and took the fight to the Allies. The French division general was much more sanguine in his approach and actually used tactics rather than the bludgeon. The British were squeezed to the point where they had to withdraw. The Austrians had a fine affair; holding their German cousins to a modest gain of ground.

Napoleon at War is our 15mm game of choice. Sure, there's lots of game systems and everyone has their favorite. This system has the least amount of warts, is relatively fast play and gets to conclusion quickly with no repeat of results from game to game. Highly recommended! You should be playing at the Rat Palace!
