The Lone Star Historical Miniatures (LSHM).

We promote miniatures wargaming in primarily historical periods but also fantasy/sci-fi. We are not dedicated to one rule set or scale. We promote miniatures wargaming by running events, helping local conventions, and assisting with tournaments, financial backing and run demo games. We will also run gaming classes at schools. We encourage all gamers to be a part of our group to help support our common hobby.

Summer is upon us, Texas is opening up, and the LSHM Board of Directors held its first MillenniumCon planning meeting!! We are “ALL-SYSTEMS-GO” for this year’s convention. We are planning a bigger and better event than our record breaking convention in 2019.

Another gaming store opens this month just outside of Houston to the south. We welcome James Womack and Third Coast Games and wish him all the best. If you live in south Houston go check out his store – soon to open. See page 2 for more details.

There will be a couple of great Bolt Action tournaments this month in San Antonio and the DFW area – check those out if you live in or near those event locations.

Lots of MillenniumCon news in this month's edition. I hope you are planning to attend – I can't wait to see old friends and make new ones. The Wingate hotel renovated all the guest rooms in late 2019 and early 2020.

Continue to send me your game projects and pictures to include in the newsletter. Welcome to all our new members this month – enjoy your gaming!!

Zulu Skirmish Game

By Wayne Appleby

Our Zulu Skirmish Game Rules are all about you as a Battalion Commander or a Zulu Ibutho directing your forces in small unit actions.

Wayne plans to run his game at this year's MillenniumCon – plan to sign up and play.

Zulu
Skirmish

You can find our game and images at

<https://www.texas-games.com/zulu> or

<https://www.texasgames.com/zulu>

"Zulu" is designed for 28mm figures or smaller. While fun to play with three to four Units on a side, Zulu plays best at "Tournament" or "Grand Scale Skirmish" level for those that like six or even more Units in their Table Top Army.

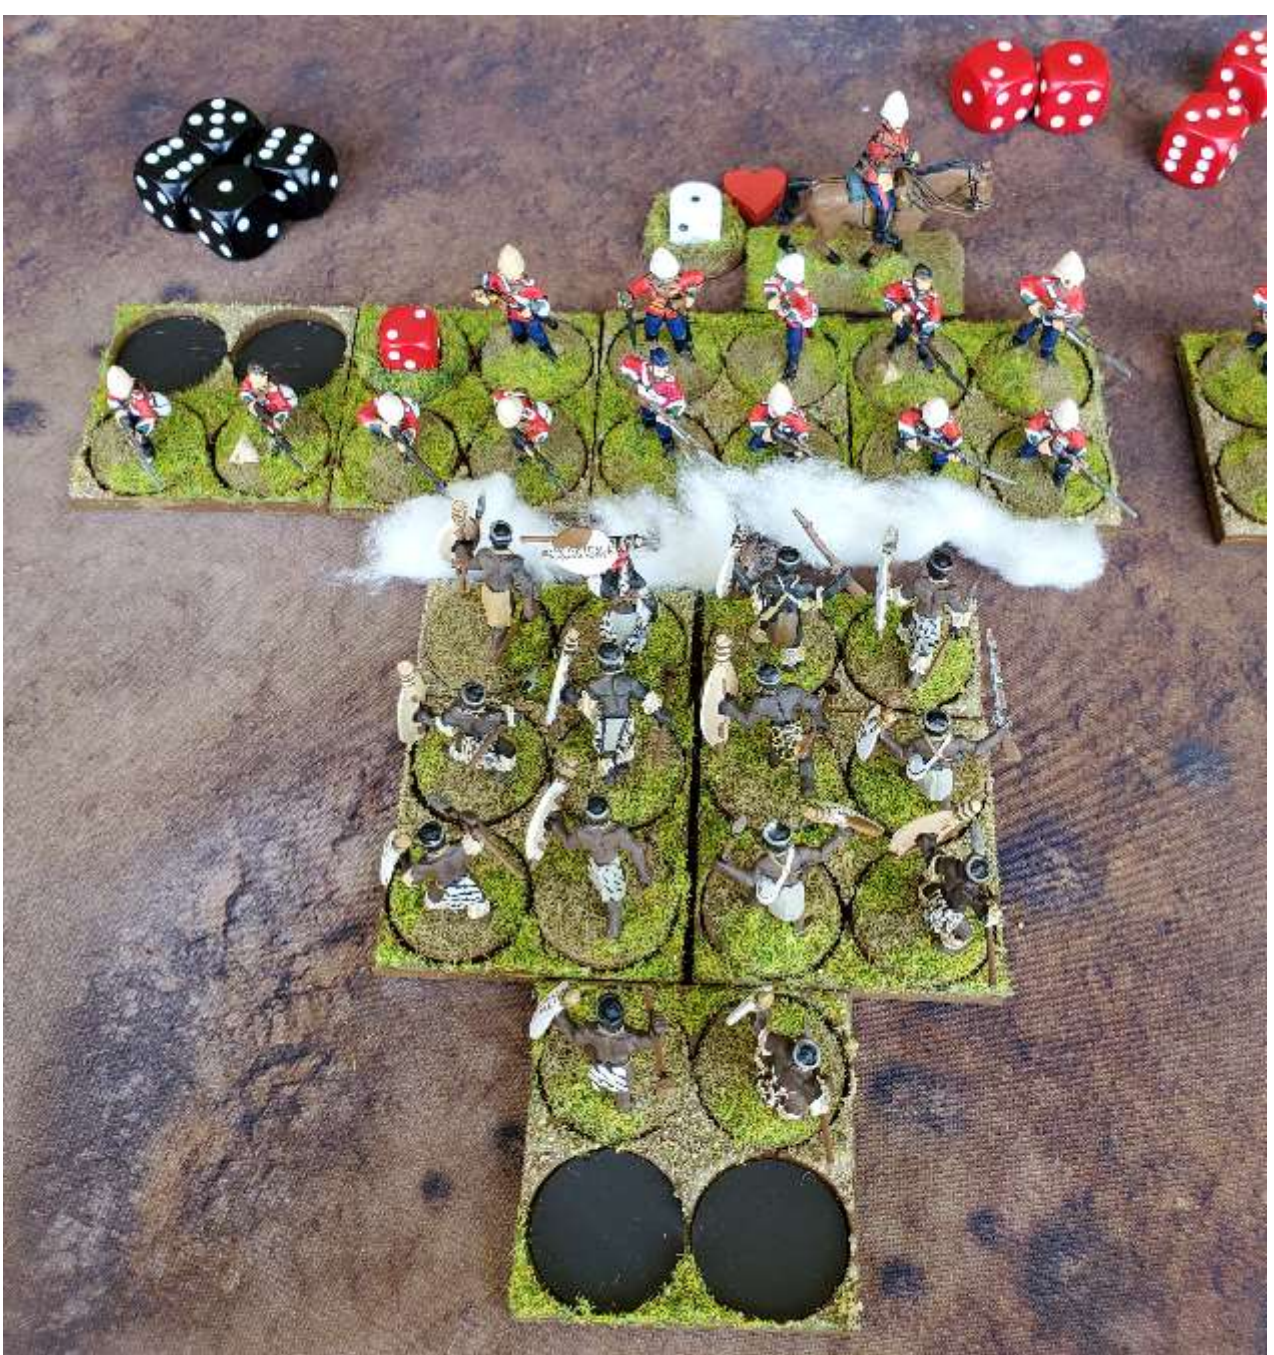

Use your own 28mm Colonial figures. For those that prefer 15mm or smaller simply use centimeters instead of the listed inches.

The Zulu Play area consists of “On-Board” and “Off-Board” play. On-Board Play is for the majority of Game Play. While there is just enough Off-Board play to capture the unique historical flavor of the Zulu Wars!

Our Game play for Millennium Con will consist of one Zulu Ibutho Commander (General) with three subordinate Impi Commanders vs. one British General and three Battalion Commanders. We will be playing one Scenarios on Saturday Morning and one on Saturday Afternoon! Observers and Friends Welcome!

You can find our game and images at

Knuckleduster Miniatures

Gunfighter's Ball Western Game Seymour, Texas 5/22/2021

Five intrepid wargamers ventured west from the greater DFW metropolitan area to Seymour, Texas, where the Kisinger hacienda and gaming emporium are located. Paul "Granpa" Kisinger hosted a game of Gunfighter's Ball (western gunfight genre) that is available from Knuckleduster Miniatures. They sell the rules, miniatures, and accessories. Paul also supplied two of his grandsons to supplement the game players and bring the total to eight.

Everyone had very little or no experience with the rules set so this was intended to be a learning session. Paul had set up the western town and had provisions for ten players. The scenario was based on a hidden cash box that was located in one of four buildings. This helped so that only those buildings needed to be "searched". Mrs. Melody Kisinger hid the cash box and also provided Miss Kitty in the Sassy Gal Saloon with the location. So, talking to Miss Kitty could reveal where the money was.

By Chuck Gibke

Seven of the players were cowboys looking to locate and keep the money. Marshall Matt Dillon and deputy Festus were opposing the cowboys and had to guard the dough. Jeff Hunt, of Bloody Broadside fame, drew the lucky chit that had him defending the cash box. He would play both characters. The other players had a single cowboy each.

Each character had either a repeating rifle or a pistol. In a fiendish twist, Paul had also given each cowboy a stick of dynamite! This would prove interesting.

The cowboys:

Red Springs Ranger – Grant Johnson

Jingle Bob John – Jeff Key

Maverick– Greg Horner

Bat Masterson – Paul Kisinger

Pancho – Wyatt Struder

Lefty – Cole Chandler

Johnny Ringo – Chuck Gibke

NPC – Miss Kitty

The cowboys all started from different directions and began heading toward the center of town. Ultimately Ranger, Maverick, and Jingle Bob were able to talk to Miss Kitty and get the location of the money which was hidden in the sheriff's office. We kind of figured this out since both Matt and Festus were stationed there. Two of the three (I think Mav and Jingle Bob) were at the saloon at the same time and agreed to ally and split the loot.

Trying to move inside a building, Johnny Ringo was caught in bushwhack by rifle totting Festus, firing three shots. Jeff Hunt was hot on the dice and hit all three, wounding Johnny in both legs and the back, limiting him to crawling and down to two red chips. JR would spend the rest of the game crawling for cover and then off the board. If I remember correctly, Jeff missed on his next nine rolls for either Matt or Festus. Sheesh.

Bat Masterson moved through the space between the sheriff's office and another building when the marshal shot Pancho, wounding him. However, Pancho tossed a dynamite stick and blew the front of the sheriff's office to bits. No injuries, however, to either Matt or Bat.

Lefty spent most of his time checking out the railway station but didn't find anything. He finally tried to head for the saloon by crossing behind the hardware store but spooked Ranger who hit him with multiple shots. Another observer reported that it was by rifle fire from Festus in the sheriff's office that got him. Regardless, Lefty died in the street.

With Ranger climbing up and lying prone on the second story of the saloon, he had "bushwhack" engaged on the side door of the Sheriff's office. This means he will shoot anyone appearing in or around the doorway, friend or foe. I thought Jeff Hunt jumped 3 feet in the air when Maverick charged up to the door and Jeff announced the bushwhack! It was great. However, Maverick survived.

Now, Pancho was not pleased with being shot at by Ranger, so he crawled over and grabbed the dynamite stick from Lefty's dead body and tossed it at the saloon. It exploded underneath the corner where Ranger was lying on the second floor. The fall and explosion, plus the secondary explosion when Ranger's dynamite stick went off meant the end of Ranger.

Johnny Ringo was able to crawl off the board in hopes of getting medical attention, so Jeff Hunt gave Festus to Chuck to play. This turned out to be ominous.

The final scene had Maverick, Jingle Bob, and Bat all converging on the sheriff's office. Festus was killed in the shootout by Bat who was then mortally wounded by Matt in return. Matt took fire from two directions and was wounded down to the three red chips, Jingle Bob supplying 2 or 3 close range hits. Matt threw in the towel at that point and it is assumed that the three cowboys split the cash. They left Pancho in the street to fend for himself.

The undertaker had his work cut out for him. Chuck was the only player to have two characters killed.

I think everyone enjoyed the game and were pleased with the rules set. We were able to check out many of the nuances. Games in the future should go faster. Paul's western town was top notch. Did I mention that lunch was supplied by Melody who cooked ribs on her new grill? It was excellent.

Several of us have been trying to encourage Forrest Harris, owner of Knuckleduster Miniatures, to attend Millennium Con this November. Regardless, there will probably be a game or two of Gunfighter's Ball in the offing.

TOURNAMENTS

Bolt Action Tournament Details available on www.twistedlordscon.com site.

TWISTED LORDS 2021 AWARDS

Procedure- A panel of Judges will evaluate all eligible Games presented in sessions 1-5. Results will be announced Saturday evening. Must be present to win. The following are this year's categories.

CATEGORIES:

• Best of Show

A GM Award selected from all of the top Historical Miniatures Games

• Best Terrain

Presented to the most creative and authentic modelers who are always staging a unique event to recognize.

• Best Painted Army

Presented to the "Paint/Airbrush Rockstar" among us all.?? Does a SAGA Irish Warband, or Bolt Action Falshirmjager platoon count as an Army? The answer is no.

GM Award Evaluation

Since judging is inevitably subjective, Judges are given the following general criteria for reference, and encouraged to see all events, and evaluate them based on:

- Appearance - Impressive & appealing figures, terrain, models, gaming tools and overall table layout
- Participation - Players are visibly enjoying the game, and all players asked respond enthusiastically
- Innovation - Unique methods, techniques or craftsmanship, GM showmanship and any other exceptional methods evident to produce a high quality event
- GM Effort - For a GM going "above-and-beyond" to run many events, and/or large fun games or over a dozen gamers, informative/educational or multimedia efforts such as historical posters, flags, AV etc.

EVENT LISTING SUMMARY – PENDING

Events will be added to the www.twistedlordscon.com on scheduled events page and Tabletop Events convention site. Games/events will be updated periodically in subsequent newsletters.

HoTW After Action Altar of Freedom Game Alan Spencer

Heart of Texas Wargamers

On Sunday May 16, the Heart of Texas Wargamers (HoTW) ran an American Civil War game of Altar of Freedom in 6mm. This was an early play through of a scenario I am planning on running at MillenniumCon 2021.

To help in this endeavor, Ben Earnest, Gary Hutchinson (Confederate players), Dave Bennett and Joe Shaughnessy (Union players) all showed up to run through the game and to provide feedback on what worked and what needed tweaking.

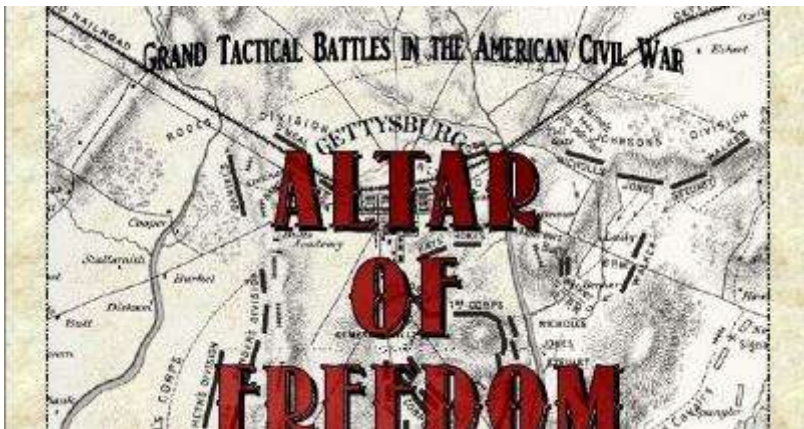

We did receive quite a bit of onlooking interest from guests at our host's location, the Iron Gauntlet Brauhaus in Killeen. This craft brewery was very open to us playing there, and there were positive vibes from both sides (gamers and hosts) about us being there. I left some LSHM brochures there for folks who might be interested in contacting us.

The game was played to conclusion, using the Altar of Freedom fast play variation (roll per end of turn to see how much actual time was run off the game clock) with the Union forces beating the Confederates. I will be taking the great critiques received from all the players – whom I again can't thank enough for that feedback to make the game more enjoyable for the future.

WW III update. Two games last night.

The first game saw Nathanael (T-80s) attack Branden (French Infantry) in the counterattack mission.

The gunslinger helicopters neutralized the Thermobaric Rocket Launcher threat while the Leopard 1s managed to get some side shots on some T-80s neutralizing much of the T-80 threat. The French then ground down the Soviets breaking their force resulting in a French victory.

The 2nd game saw Chris (USMC and US Army) taking on Mark Reed and Steve (Soviet T-62M) in the Free For All mission. It was a bloody contest with both sides absorbing significant casualties.

The American right flank consisting of a USMC rifle platoon and four absolutely indestructible USMC M-60s ended up collapsing the Soviet flank and took the objective after the Pattons destroyed first a platoon of 7 T-62s followed by the T-62 formation commander, 2 shilkas and 3 carnations. The USMC M-60s were the undisputed heroes of the night! WW II next week.

WW II Update. Our first game last night had Nathanael (Soviet Heavy Assault Gun) attack Mark Reed (British Cromwells) in the Bridgehead mission.

It was a hard fought battle but the British were out-gunned and out-armored by the heavy Soviet armor force. The British did exact three units of casualties prior to succumbing to a game winning tank assault by the ISU-122s with the IS-2 formation commander joining in.

The second game saw Steve (Sturm Grenadiers) attack Chris (US Rifle company) in the counterattack mission. The theme of the night was awe inspiring American shooting followed by nearly equally amazing saves by the Germans.

The Germans looked to get the better of the Americans early when in spite of 6 out of 8 hits by the M-10s in ambush needing 5+ on the StuGs resulting in only a single kill. The return fire took out 3 of the 4 M-10s.

American reserves came on slowly but when they did they took out one of the two tigers. The American rifle platoon near the right objective was pinned and couldn't immediately get on the objective which left it very contestable. The German Sturm platoon that was bearing down on this objective rallied nearly every time and absorbed a great amount of firepower while remaining relatively intact.

An assault by the grenadiers was just barely pinned which kept the Americans contesting the objective. The last turn saw the last tiger try to assault the infantry. An M-10 hit in defensive fire but the tiger saved it.

The OP Sherman got a hit which bailed the tiger and caused him to break off and finally Bazooka Bert who was pinned did not want to miss the action and hit the tiger as well causing a double bail whereupon the tiger failed his remount to stay on the battlefield and the game was called. Next week Team Yankee/WW III.

PROHIBITION ERA

28mm Gaming by
Blake Radetsky

During this past COVID year and combined with the Deep Freeze, has forced me to spend more time out in the barn.

One rabbit hole started way back in 1996, yeah, that long ago, with Steve Barber's "The Bootleggers" game. Steve had a full range of 28mm gangster figures, buildings and street accessories. Always thought that would be a cool game, but at that time, I was heavy into 15mm and I starting to convert my armies to 10mm. I also was not a fan of skirmish games, so I did not take that step.

Then I was introduced to Ed Teixeira's 2007, "Baby Face and Me:" rules by playing his "All Things Zombies" rules produced by Two Hour Wargames. Then Ed's, 2009, "Gangsters" a supplement to his Chain Reaction rules. Both were fun, I was using 15mm Romans as Gangsters because I still didn't want to invest in 28mm Gangster minis. Plus, I just wanted to try the rules.

PARADISE ARENA BOXING SPOTLIGHT

What a momentous night for Thomas Hitman. Tommy Hitman took on Lafayette Quickfoot. Quickfoot, the people's favorite, was the one to beat. But he should be renamed Lafayette Shufflefoot as by the end of the match, he was having serious conversation with the canvas.

ROUND FOUR

The match started with both boxers dancing inside the squared circle. Each trying to figure each other out. Round 1 and 2 was mostly a couple of jabs and several times up against the ropes. By round 3, Tommy the Hitman was no longer hitting he was covering up. But he kept going and boy did he turn the tide. In round 4, Tommy got his second wind and kept pounding on Lafayette. Quickfoot took some upper cuts and Hitman kept it coming. There was no way for Lafayette to escape. Lafayette hit the canvas and that was all she wrote. TKO for Thomas Hitman. What a way to turn things around!!!!
