

First, I want to wish everyone a Very Merry CHRISTMAS and Happy HANNUKKAH. What a great time of the year. Secondly just a shout out to everyone who participated at MillenniumCon this year – what a great and fun event. It was great to see everyone and meet up with good friends. I especially want to thank all the Game Masters who ran some pretty amazing games this year. I also want to thank everyone who helped out with setup, teardown, working the front desk registration, and helping out in a whole bunch of areas. If you were not able to attend – you missed an awesome time.

Lots of great events going on around Texas – visit the Events calendar inside the newsletter.

Biff Coon

Award of Excellence

Best Game Of MillenniumCon

This award is presented each year to the best game at MillenniumCon. It is in honor of Mr. Biff Coon, a long time LSHM member and MillenniumCon participant. Biff was an icon in Texas Wargaming—his cheerful demeanor, friendly smile, and kindness always added to the joy of every game he ran or participated in.

2022 Winner

Midway – Alan Spencer

Congratulations to Alan Spencer and the Heart of Texas Wargames (HoTW) for being voted The Best Game of MillenniumCon 2022!

Alan's Avalon Hill Battle of Midway was truly a magnificently run game. The game featured a double-blind system where both the Japanese and American fleet commanders moved and searched for the enemy behind a cardboard screen - when forces met they fought on the ocean board set up between the opposing forces. All players had a great time playing this game. History was reversed and the Imperial Japanese navy scored a huge victory. Great job Alan.

We had a total of 39 games receiving votes - honorable mention goes to Mike Gomez and Circus Maximus in second place and Cal Kinzer and his Alamo game in third place.

Thank you to all those who ran games this year.

This award is presented each year in Memory and Honor of Biff Coon as an Award of Excellence for the best game of MillenniumCon.

AH Midway with Miniatures Game by Alan Spencer (HoTW)

The Heart of Texas Wargamers (HoTW) club ran an adaptation of the old Avalon Hill game "Midway" using miniatures and separated command duties for both the Japanese and US forces at MillenniumCon 2022. Six players participated in the game.

IJN Screen Positions

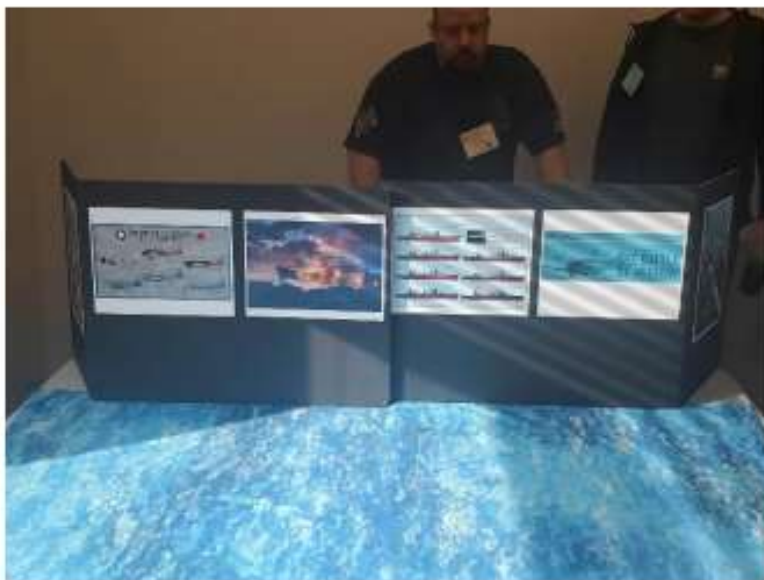

The players assumed different roles for their forces (see above): Fleet Admiral, Air Boss, and Task Force Commander. This caused, as expected, some command friction – which was present in the original battle.

The miniatures used were 3d printed from 3dWargames. We had 1:2400 scale ships and 1:900 scale aircraft.

Ships (1:2400) and planes (1:900)

The game was played in a double-blind format, with both forces maneuvering behind screens (shown below), and the Task Force Commanders keeping the Game Master updated so their forces could be tracked on the GM screen (which onlookers could observe what was going on).

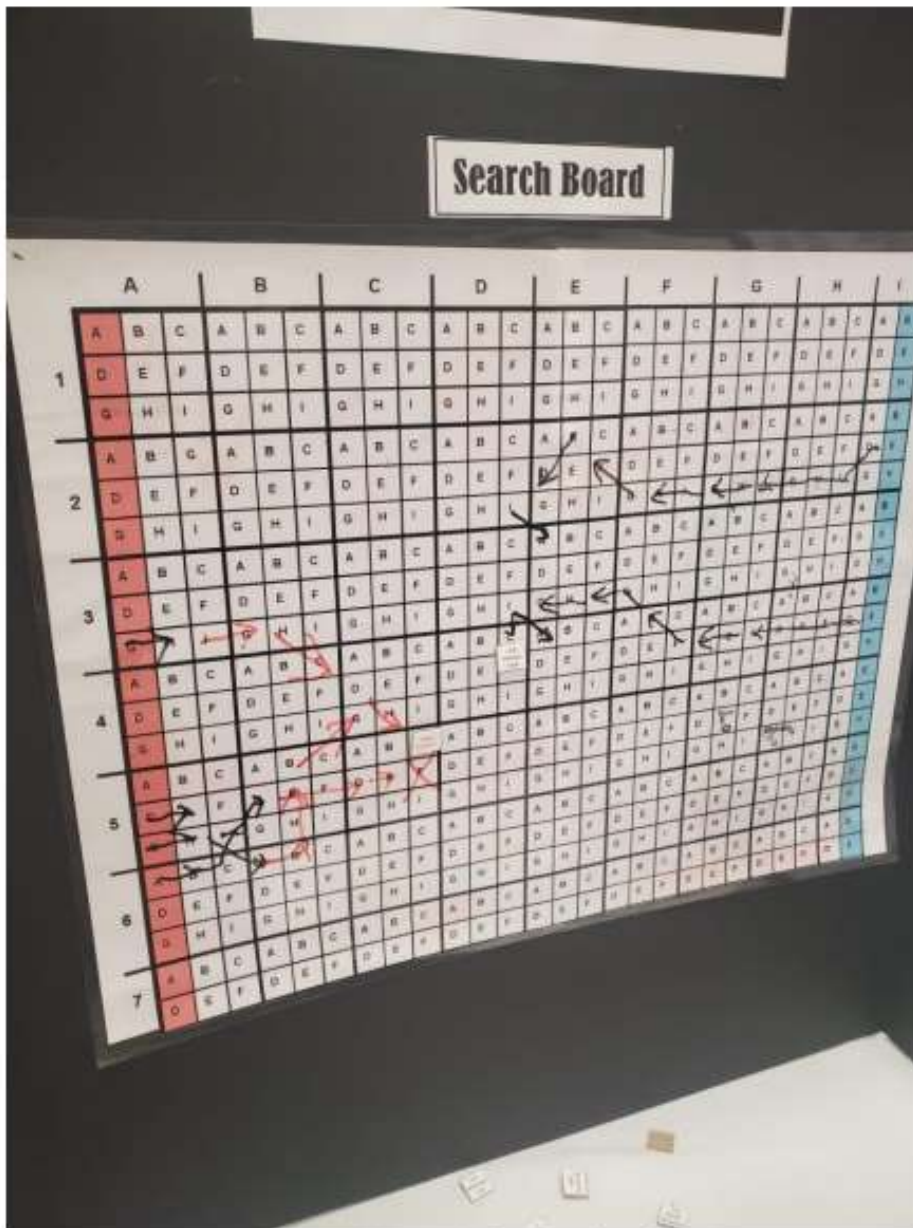

US Screen

USN Players

IJN Players

Game Master's Screen/track

In the battle played at MillenniumCon, the IJN forces were tracked well into the first day, with the American forces pushing forward in two separate task forces. However, some skillful maneuvering by the IJN Fleet Admiral, caused the Americans lose track of the main force.

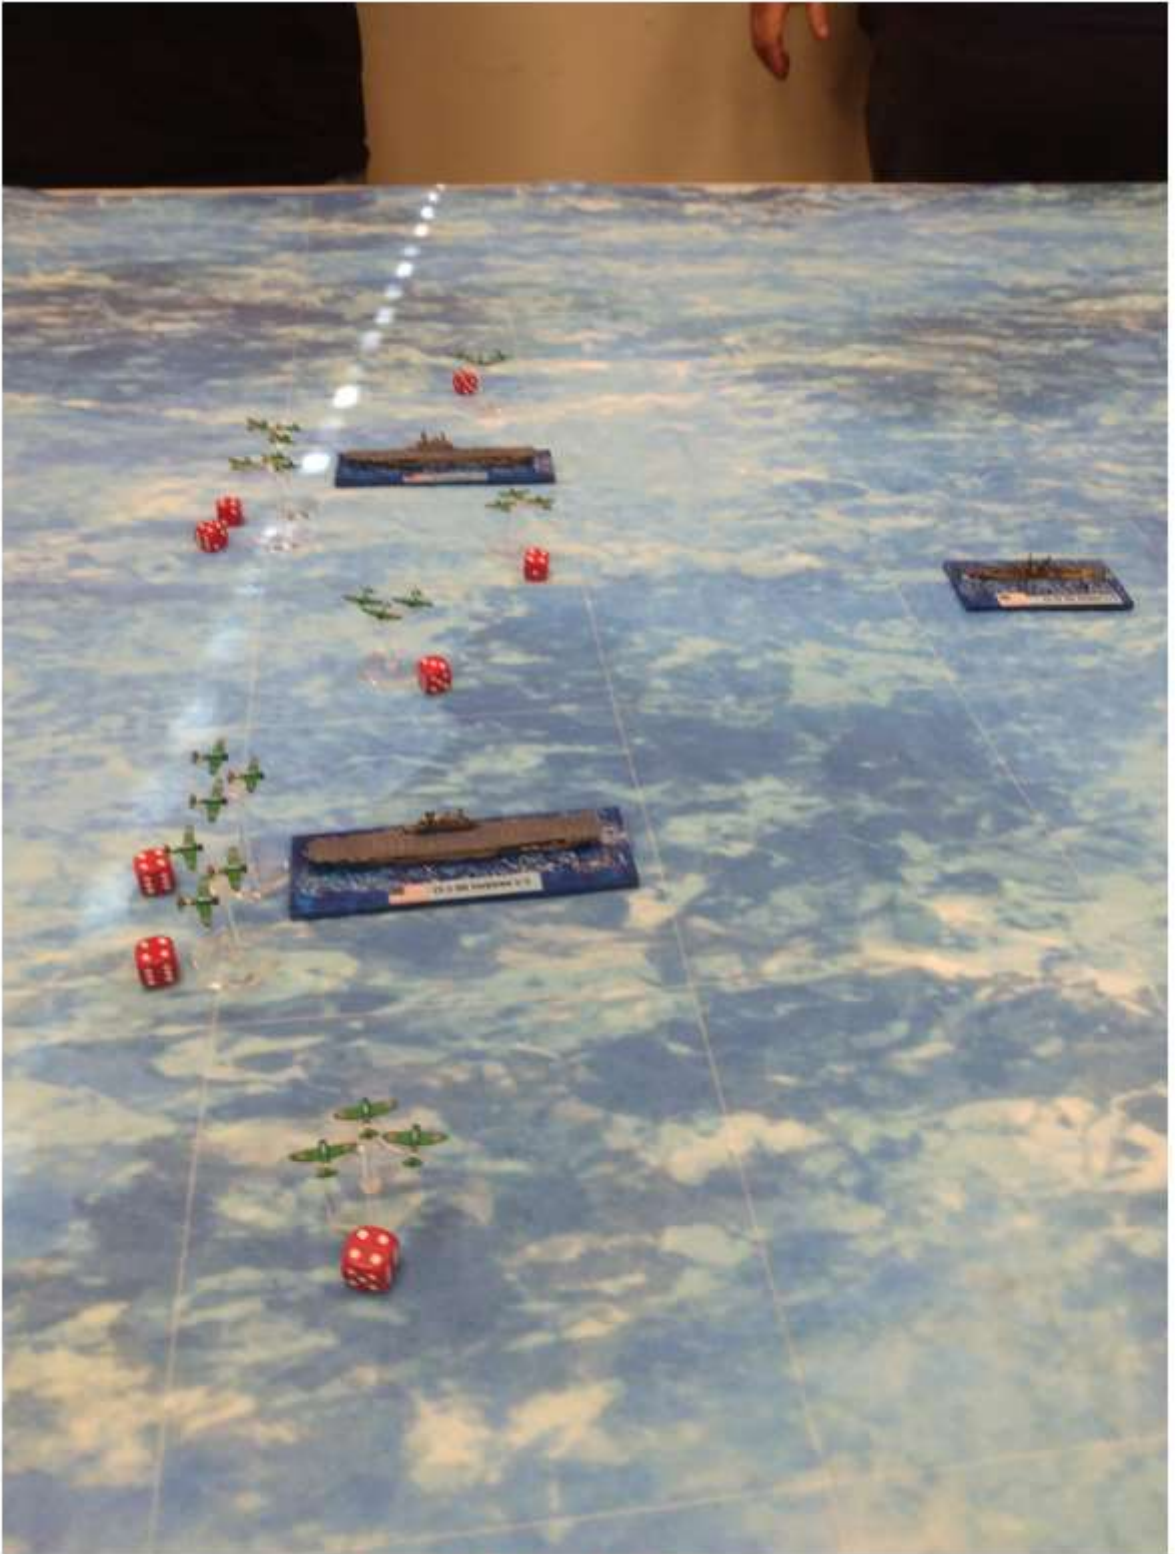

The Americans did find a lone IJN cruiser (the Nagara) and sank it. But the IJN had a combat cap over it, and the cruiser bit back, sending multiple slow devastator torpedo bombers into the cold Pacific waters.

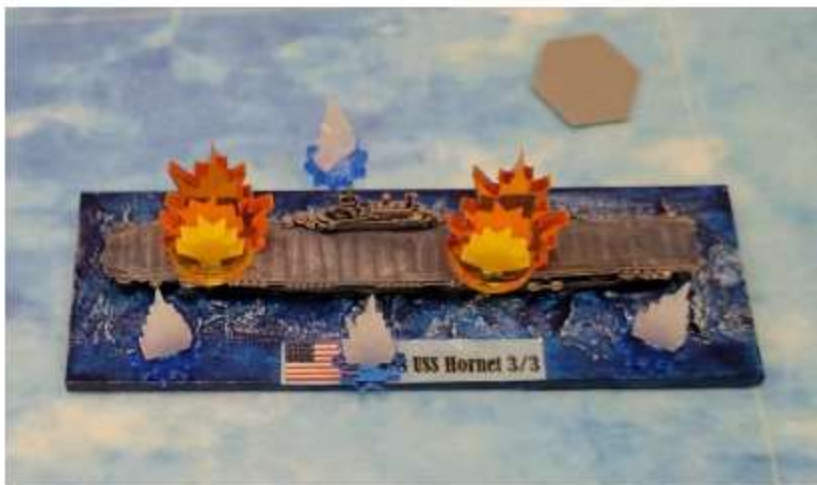

USN Air Strike on IJN carriers

Some time later, the Americans found the IJN carrier force and attacked. However with their depleted strike force, they only scored a total of 3 hits over 3 different carriers. All were still afloat and looking for revenge.

Meanwhile, the IJN scout planes finally found the American fleet, that had just separated again from each other. The Hornet, Yorktown, and the AA cruiser Atlanta were hit with a massive strike, sinking both US carriers. The game was called at that point.

Kido Butai find 2 American carriers

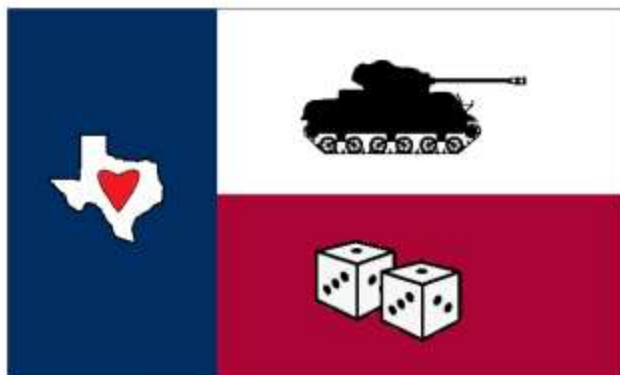

Hornet hit/sunk

Yorktown takes 1 bomb and 11 torpedo hits

Great fun by all. And truly, without the support of the HoTW club this would not have been possible.

Come game with us!

MilleniumCon 2022

Bolt Action Tournament

Report

By Robert Williams (Tournament Organizer – TO)

This year Milleniumcon 2022 started November 10-14, 2022, and we had Bolt Action Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. Thursday night saw some tank-on-tank action in Tank Wars. Friday saw a multi-player game of Axis versus Allies action and a prelude to the main attraction on Saturday.

Saturday's tournament was scheduled to have 24 players. We had two players drop out 3 days before the tournament. When the tournament started, we had managed to get back up to 24 players on paper. After roll call we ended up four players short but at least we had an even number. The tournament consisted of three rounds of meeting engagement type scenarios., Starting with a single platoon at 750 points and increasing 250 points each of the next two rounds to a total of 1250 points.

We had many diverse platoons ranging from the usual suspects of Japanese and Germans fighting British and Soviets to some new units. We had USMC, US infantry along with Hungarians, Finns, Italians and Greeks. But one country was beginning to dominate the tournament early. Japan was beginning to show strong domination on the battlefield. This showed as Japanese armies held 3 of the top 5 spots.

By tournament end, Troy Lancto's Japanese spear army proved unbeatable and swept all before it. Troy's army consisted of five 15-man squads of spearmen, driven mad by starvation and fanatical fervor. This won the tournament as he emerged undefeated to clinch the championship. Congratulations to Troy for the win. Top Axis General went to 2nd place finisher Thomas Raines Japanese platoon. 3rd place went to Kevin Hines German Platoon. Fourth place and Top Allied General went to Brian Cassaday and his British platoon.

We present a special award to the unlucky, or lucky, depending on your view, player who finishes last. We call this award the FUBAR award. This year's recipient was Major Stewart. The rest of the tournament lined up as follows:

- Champion: Troy Lancto's Japanese
- 2nd place finisher Thomas Raines Japanese
- 3rd place went to Kevin Hines German Platoon.
- 4th place went to Brian Cassaday and his British
- 5th place Evan Hoy Japanese
- 6th place Qwen White Finns
- 7th place Chris Reed Russians
- 8th place Shawn Cambron Hungarians
- 9th place Chris Cassaday German DAK
- 10th place Roman Torok Greeks
- 11th place Bruce McDanel Italians
- 12th place John Prymuszewski German
- 13th place Thai Luong Russians also our youngest player at 12 years
- 14th place Gregory Stineman USMC
- 15th place Mike Y'Barbo Russians
- 16th place Rick Hoy Russians
- 17th place Alex Davis German
- 18th place Major Stewart US Army

Also played but not placed

DeWayne Hartman, had to drop due to illness

Phil Vernon, had to drop due to previous commitment

Congratulations to all contestants for some well played games and great comraderie.

Special thanks to Warlord Games for sponsoring the tournament and for providing primary prize support for all the three days of playing. Also, thanks to Phil Vernon of Sherwood Wargames, Chris Reed of Panacea 3D Printing and LSHM for additional prize support for the main tournament. Also, I personally would like to thank all who attended for attending and tolerating my mistakes.

Hope to see you again next year.
